

Bowl and Birds

Welcome to the Forest of Bowland. There are lots of different rare species of birds. (Shh) Remember to be quiet!

Lapwing
Appearance
 They have a flick called a plover. They are black and white and it has a distinctive green stripe on their back.

Habitat
 It lives in farmland where there are lots of worms to eat and insects and can be also found in North Wales.

Eat
 It eats worms and insects in the squidy mud on farms.

Curlew
Appearance
 A long distinctive beak because it has a bend.

Habitat

It lives in North Wales as well as Bowland Farmland, Borders, East of Scotland.

Eat
 Worms, Shellfish and Shrimps.

Peregrine
Appearance

It has pointed wing tips and also a small tail. It is shaded grey with dark blue.

Habitat

Nests on big high cliffs so that so that it can swoop down to catch its prey.

Eat

Medium sized birds, like wading birds, pigeons and small ducks.

Hen harrier

Appearance

The female is brown and the male is grey. They have sharp claws called talons and a sharp hooked beak for tearing. The hen harrier has a distinctive call. It sounds like a 'caw' sound. It has black wing tips, very good eyesight, white rump, grey tail and pale grey body.

Habitat

Diagram of a Curlew

It is shaded grey with a small tail.

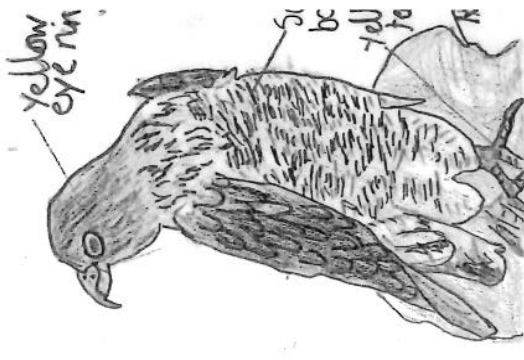

Diagram of a Hen harrier